Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas Key DevelopmentsSamson Resources Corp. Unsecured Creditors Look to Sue JPMorgan Chase Bank NA and Deutsche Bank Trust Co. Americas

Aug 17 16

The official committee of unsecured creditors of Samson Resources Corp. seeks approval to pursue alleged fraudulent transfer claims and causes of action against first- and second-lien lenders as it looks to recover up to $1.5 billion. The committee on Aug. 12, filed a motion in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware in Wilmington seeking authority to pursue the claims against first-lien agent JPMorgan Chase Bank NA, first-lien lenders, second-lien agent Deutsche Bank Trust Co. Americas and second-lien lenders. Judge Christopher S. Sontchi has scheduled a hearing on the motion for Sept. 7. Objections are due by Aug. 26. Committee counsel Thomas Lauria of White & Case LLP and debtor counsel Paul Basta of Kirkland & Ellis LLP were unavailable for comment. The committee seeks to prosecute and settle claims from an alleged fraudulent conveyance related to the $8 billion leveraged buyout of oil and gas exploration and production company Samson Investment Co. by private equity sponsors in 2011, four years before the debtor's Chapter 11 filing, and an emergency issuance of second-lien debt nine months after the LBO. The committee also looks to prosecute fraudulent transfer claims against second-lien lenders for the granting of mortgages on previously unencumbered properties immediately before the debtor filed for Chapter 11 protection. Finally, the committee seeks authority to pursue an adversary proceeding to determine the extent of the secured lenders' security interests in certain Samson assets, to avoid improperly perfected liens and to recharacterize or disgorge the adequate protection payments paid to the secured lenders in the Chapter 11 cases. The complaint alleges Samson did not receive reasonably equivalent value for the
